

Creative Director: Riley Perry

Designer: Emma Hinckley

Love it so far! The gradient is a nice touch and I love how you were able to keep the bolder feel with the font and images and how the hover states of the links work.

- I think that the intro section box could be a bit smaller since there is not much text in it and the extra space on the bottom feels a little awkward for spacing
- As you keep working, I think it would be good for the margins on the left and right for the body text on the sub-pages to be the same as on the home page. (text as wide as the boxes on home)
  - I also went to click for the home page in the nav bar at the top when I was in a subpage and realized its not there so maybe add home to the nav bar at the top
  - Can you make the entire box on the home page clickable for each sub-page?
    - Like make the entire black box for origins a link to the origin page since I think it's intuitive for the user to click there and not specifically on the 'Learn More'
- Other than that it looks good!!